Williams Gateway Airport Launches New Passenger Service and Airline Ticket Prize Drawing

Two round-trip airline tickets given away each time Allegiant announces a new destination out of Valley airport

MESA, Ariz. – August 8, 2007 – Beginning August 9th Allegiant Airlines, a full-service travel company offering low-fare, nonstop jet service from Williams Gateway Airport (WGA), will announce the first of 13 markets available by the carrier, servicing Williams Gateway Airport. The first route out of Williams Gateway Airport will be announced and available for purchase on August 9, while the remaining twelve routes will be announced before September 16.

With each announcement, which is tracked by a countdown on the company's website (www.allegiantair.com), one name will be chosen by WGA to receive two round-trip tickets to the recently announced market. To be eligible as a winner, all contestants must complete the "We Need You" survey on the WGA website prior to the latest announcement (<http://www.flywga.org/Direct%20Air%20Service.aspx>), which will allow the public to give their input on what services and amenities they would like to see offered at Gateway in the future.

"We are excited to be partnering with Allegiant in our efforts to better serve the community," said John Barry, marketing manager at WGAA, "and we hope that this program gives back to those who have supported the vision of expanding air services from Williams Gateway Airport.”
